Ask Council Approval of New Library

Preliminary plans for the new North Torrance Library, to be built on the southwest corner of Artesia Boulevard and Yukon Avenue, will be presented to the City Council Tuesday for approval. The plans were drawn by the architectural firm of Weldon J. Fulton and Associates.

The library will contain a minimum of 18,500 books and will be designed to serve both adult and youth borrowers. Controls in the new facility are centralized.

Special areas have been designed for adults, junior high students, and children. The library contains a number of browsing, display, and reading areas, as well as several reading patios.

New 2-Year Accounting Course Set

For the first time in El Camino College history a full two-year accounting program will be offered as courses in intermediate and cost accounting are introduced during the spring semester.

Intermediate accounting, listed on the schedule of classes as Business 2A, is a continuation of the work in the first semester course, Principles of Accounting, and corresponds with the accounting taught at universities and state colleges in the Southern California area.

Cost accounting, also known as Business 4, is a study of industrial cost and accounting procedures. This course will be followed by Income Tax accounting, which will be offered in the spring of 1965.

"These courses have been added to the commerce department curriculum because of demands in the local area for these subjects. Students may now complete the associate in arts degree in accounting with a full schedule of accounting and related business courses," Hugo Dallas, business instructor, said.

Appointments to register are now available in the registration office of the college. Actual registration for the spring semester will be Jan. 27-31.
